

01/06/10 - A lesson in how to handle our problems

This is a great post on how Switzerland is standing against mass Muslim immigration. There's nothing wrong with someone moving to a new nation, as long as the immigrant understands that his new nation will not condescend to his personal religious preferences. Of course, to believe this way you have to believe that one particular belief is right.